

What Our Clients Say

Find out more about Occupational Psychology

British Psychological Society at <http://www.bps.org.uk/> - The British Psychological Society (BPS) is the representative body for psychologists and psychology in the UK. They are responsible for the development, promotion and application of psychology for the public good. One way in which they quality assure the professional standards of psychologists is by granting chartered status to psychologists who meet their strict criteria for qualifications and supervised professional experience.

Association of Business Psychologists at <http://www.theabp.org/> - The ABP is a community of professionals who are business led, and psychology-focused, who share a common purpose to bring the best from research and applied psychology to the business world. Their strapline is "Promoting business success through psychology".

Find out more about the 'Myers Briggs Type Indicator'

There are many books published about this most useful model of personality and personal style. Here are some of our favourites

- "What Type Am I?" Baron R. ISBN 0 14 02.6941
- "Please Understand Me" Keirsey D. and Bates M. ISBN 619 632 1575
- "Life Types" by Krebs Hirsh S. and Kummerow J. ISBN 0 446 38823 8
- "Do What You Are" Tieger P and Barron-Tieger B. ISBN 0 316 845221 1

Find out more about Neurolinguistic Programming (NLP), Time Line Therapy™ and Hypnotherapy

The training provider we would recommend is 'The Performance Partnership' at <http://www.performancepartnership.com/>

Again, many books are published in these fields. Here are a few that make an interesting starting point.

- "NLP at Work" by Sue Knight. ISBN 1 85788 070 6
- "Time Line Therapy and the Basis of Personality" by Tad James. ISBN 0 916990 21 4
- "Healing in Hypnosis" by Milton H Erikson. ISBN 0 8290 3154 5

Go to the Change Team's Internet-enabled 360° Feedback Process at <http://www.360dfb.co.uk/> - Access via password for registered users only.